Well, this is not my type of music, that's for sure....deathcore....anyhow, I can hear these guys know how to handle their instruments properly and that's good, no worries. It all sounds to me like some sort of a simpler version of IN FLAMES or any other, later albums in the vein of "Gothenburg-styled" metal. The vox are damn brutal and there is a lot going on in this music – but it gets a bit boring the more time you spend with this band, yeah. It is just not my cup of tea, this style, but if you need this kind of stuff, deathcore I mean, I am sure you won't be disappointed at all.
