

This stuff will be released through Iron Pegasus on 7`` but I was lucky to get this for review on tape beforehand. I was excited, all right, as their debut demo

Morbid Metal

is one of most interesting tapes I`ve recently listened to. This two-track ep is damn good, the sound is rougher and dirtier than demo`s; overall, the 7``s music is grimmer and more brutal in my opinion. First to enjoy is

Subterranean Death Rising

with plenty of tempo changes.

NECROMANIAC□

can perfectly build up tension in their music. It is majestic, dark and relentlessly aggressive. 7``s second track –

Sealed for Eternity□

is a slab of old-school death/thrash, catchy as fuck, and suffused with the very presence of The Ruler of Hell – Satan himself. Yes, this music is marked by hellish powers, indeed. Guitars are dense, wild and razor sharp like fuck. Yup, these guitar parts bestially whip a listener; subtle keyboard elements build up this track`s suspension. This track ends with oriental guitar motives which slowly silence up the song. I was stunned when this advance ep was over – so many

NECROMANIAC- Subterranean Death Rising ep7 Iron Pegasus 2018

Wpisany przez Oldchool Metal Maniac

środa, 24 października 2018 06:27 - Poprawiony środa, 24 października 2018 06:33

---

hidden, covert gems it has got to be discovered by its listeners. This music is very rich and complex. One can easily sense how much the band have progressed for the last three years since their

Morbid Metal□

ep7 was out. I am looking forward to the vinyl edition of this stuff but, in the meantime, well, I am going to rewind the tape and play this ep again. Sonic enjoyment cast in hell itself, hell yeah!

NecronosferatuS