

Well, this is how Devilish Metal ought to be performed. "Merciless Night Cult" is, right from the beginning, a solid kick in your filthy mug and pure fucking mayhem. Dark and grim sound reeks of hell and is solidly rooted in the vein of old-school black/speed/thrash. This stuff is just suffused with glorification and devotion to the Horned one. Damn, this stuff puts me in a perfect mood. Well, WAROATH is a young band, yet the members used to play in a number of other bands. Wened drums like Beelzebub himself on the skulls of decapitated priests. M. Necromancer yanks the six and four string throats of the beast. And Adrian, screams into the mike put on a pile of unbleached human bones like he was really possessed. In such a company, devil must feel pretty good, and what is more, this music just blows everything up into million pieces. The "Deathstrike" side has got two Anthems to Satanic spawn: "Whine of an Abandoned Graveyard" and „On the Lunar Throne of Damnation". The "Hellwar" side is no fucking joke, so we've got SLAYER'S "Black Magic" – damn, you can lose your lower jawbone as its going to get under your bad, so good this track is. well, to finish off a guy who's already down, we're offered "Conspiracy of Wargods". All is well and good, but why this stuff is so damn short? I am just getting started. I just want more music like this. Well, let's flip the tape and listen to the A side again. I gotta say the tape itself is very pro-done, with a sticker and a pro-printed cover. I am happy I participated in this production as well, as I took the demo's picture. This stuff is limited to 136 copies so if you've not gotten your copy of "Merciless Night Cult" yet, well, do it or else you'll grind your teeth....Get this stuff, it's worth it. LWS
