

NECROMANIAC - Morbid Metal Demo Tape 2015

Wpisany przez Oldchool Metal Maniac

sobota, 28 lipca 2018 08:59 - Poprawiony sobota, 28 lipca 2018 09:09

MORBID METAL TO THE DEATH!!!

got this tape some time ago but didn't have the time to give it a proper listen. Yes, the band'd sent me the link to the online version of their demo, but I am not too keen on this kind of stuff, really. I finally got the hard copy, but, well, I had so much stuff for review as well as gigs I had to attend at the time that I put the tape on the pile for later use, so to say. So, today the right time has come to give it a spin. The tape itself looks cool, old-school all right. Yes, I put this cassette into my jolly, almost 40-year-old JVC KDA7 to find out that their debut recording is this unique band's only release to date. This demo has been around for three years now and I was really lucky I happened to stumble across it. The band themselves hail from London and formed in 2011. Their music is riveting death/thrash, devilish to the bone and one can easily sense some early PROTECTOR or SADISTIC INTENT influences here and there. Jaw-dropping for sure, I love this kind of stuff, I really do. Now I understand why this demo is out on tape not cd for instance. That's the proper medium for stuff like this. I can only imagine how the vinyl version would sound like! Amazing!

Morbid Metal feature

s five tracks enchanted in 18 minutes.

Into the Darkest of Realms comes first; an instrumental track providing listeners with a highly condensed dose of thrilling darkness. The main riff, heavy as fuck brings up beastly lusts...

Cosmic Onslaught

is next, catchy as hell and there is no time to take a deeper breath, I tell you.

NECROMANIAC

exterminates everyone and everything. The guitar sound is similar to

PROTECTOR

's

Misanthropy

MLP, by the way. Razor sharp, deadly, fucking awesome! Slower parts are distinguishably atmospheric; these blend with march-like tempos – really catchy, I must say!

Armies of Concrete Rot is next, runs for 5 minutes and is a killer track, full of energy with totally paralyzing vocals of Thanatophilia R.G.

. Yes, this guy's a real destroyer. He handles the vocals stunningly well. Another murderer is

Underneath the Crucifix

. Intense, thrashy and aggressive riffs – this tune kicks ass! Very subtle keyboard background is minimal and enhances the overall atmosphere very well.

Cursed by the Revenant is last and this cut is awesome too. Yeah, I get to tell you guys, I can't remember the last time I was so devastated by music. So, don't be surprised to stumble across the interview in this

NECROMANIAC

OMMM

issue. It is true, they've released only one demo but hell, we'll hear more about them in the future, that's for sure. If you haven't managed to get this tape - try and get in touch with the band themselves. They might have some spare copies for sale:

<https://necromaniac.bandcamp.com/>

band c/o ore-mail:

NECROMANIAC - Morbid Metal Demo Tape 2015

Wpisany przez Oldchool Metal Maniac

sobota, 28 lipca 2018 08:59 - Poprawiony sobota, 28 lipca 2018 09:09

sadistikfornicator@gmail.com.

Necro